Welcome to C4E Inji

Getting Started:

Inji is the first AI-based study platform to save students time by automatically creating study materials in an individual as well as a social learning environment.

Inji is an AI platform that automatically creates a significant number of adaptive, valid, personalized learning materials that can be used by students of any subject to study and review individually or in a social learning environment, or by teachers to save time and effort in creating those materials.

From nothing more than a list of subject specific key terms, Inji's core technology allows students and instructors to create a editable and shareable study guides filled with pertinent articles, videos, quiz questions, and flashcards from the best open educational resources available. Furthermore, it provides a collaboration platform for students to work together in real-time text editing, in-app messaging, and player vs. player gaming environments.

Inji includes a convenient dashboard with all the tools that students and instructors need to generate, interact, and share assessment and study materials. Inji's iOS and Android apps also allow anytime, anywhere access.
